

Kali'na

“Amerindian name given to the Caribs / Arawak’s when Europeans arrived, to differentiate them from the mainland Caribs of South America. Originally, they have lived in the coastal area of the Guiana’s and in the eastern coastal Venezuela and are the early inhabitants of Tobago. They are known for working with the bitter cassava. The Venezuelan dish Arepa is credited to the Kali’na tribes. Kali’na are also known for their artisanal work with calabash and wood carvings”.
